

Hello.

Do you ever visit the website of some translation concern, only to search in vain for actual information about the owners, stakeholders, the workers?

Companies who boast an office in every capital city, but apart from a stock image of an Asian girl at a computer with a microphone, nothing about the people who make it all happen?

Well strap in, because you are about to meet the legends..

The Emulator

Here is Emily and I, honoured to be bathed in the light of the amazing CHAKKERS!!! Yes! Chiaki Kobayashi who is now a legend in Tokyo, wagged work from the advertising agency where she is employed to sim-ul-taneously interpret a workshop for Cancer Patient Support Groups.

2023 These two geniuses Jemma Ives and Rebeca Paredes Nieto organised a SI training course in RMIT's flash new facility so Heather came over from Perth. There were some pretty impressive people and much eating and drinking.

Also had dumplings and peace with Sarina in Footscray.

CHRIS
STUDY IN JAPAN

Chris Poole, a fifth year pupil of Ferntree Gully High School and Anne Cumming of Boronia, a pupil of the Methodist Ladies College will attend school in Japan for 12 months.

The exchange has been organised by the Bayswater Rotary Club.

About five applications were received by the club for the exchange program.

The club will host an exchange student from Japan this year and intends to sponsor another one next year.

Chris said yesterday that he was thrilled with the prospect of going to Japan for a year.

He said he felt the trip would broaden his experience.

"I'm all for the idea of these - exchange programs to establish relations between countries," he said.

COURSE

Chris and Anne will do a crash course in Japanese.

They will spend a week at the Preston Institute of Technology.

The pair will also have the opportunity to live in at Latrobe University for two weeks and work with other Australian students headed for Japan and Japanese students studying here.

Chris and Anne will attend a number of Rotary functions between now and their departure so that they will be familiar with the Rotary system and aims.

Asked about his plans for when he returned from Japan, Chris said he intended to do his HSC, then perhaps on to a working holiday around Australia.

Two high school students from the Knox area will go to Japan as part of a Rotary student exchange program next year.
